

Lecture, discussion and showing of "A Son's Sacrifice"

American Corner Jessore hosted a lecture/discussion/movie show program on "Muslim Life in the USA" on September 24. The program was organized during Ramadan at the American Corner during the visit of the IRC outreach librarian. After a series of speeches and discussions, a documentary movie on Bangladeshi-American Muslims, "A Son's Sacrifice," was screened for the audience. Total attendees numbered 54, including host institution representatives Dr. Mostafizur Rahman, additional deputy commissioner, education director of Jessore Md. Mostafizur Rahman, local imams, madrasa teachers, local journalists, faculty, and students. The program ended with an Ifter hosted by U.S. Embassy, Dhaka. Dr. Mostafizur Rahman thanked U.S. Embassy, Dhaka for initiating this program. He spoke against terrorism in the name of Islam in his speech. He also mentioned that this type of program can minimize the misunderstanding between the U.S. and the Muslim World. Dr. Mostafiz did his Ph.D. at Dhaka University in Bengali Literature and is a prominent academic and writer.

Dr. Mostafizur Rahman is talking to the audience

Attendees are watching "A Son's Sacrifice"